

This Fellowship post is designed to accommodate a qualified clinician, who has attained CCT in Trauma and Orthopaedics or equivalent, or who is on the specialist register, who would like to gain a further period of development in the sub-specialty of Foot and Ankle Surgery in preparation for a consultant role. It is open to UK and international trainees.

The post offers, subject to satisfactory assessment, the opportunity to develop independent surgical practice. The role also gives exposure to specialist Foot and Ankle Disorders clinics and theatre lists, and the opportunity to engage in specific research and audit programmes.

The training needs of the Fellow will be considered before determining the amount of time spent with different Foot and Ankle consultants.

For those Fellows interested in gaining specific experience in complex deformity correction or ankle arthroplasty, 12 months will be split amongst different RJAH Consultants for the widest possible exposure to different surgical techniques for complex conditions.

Split time to gain enough exposure in complex disorders is strongly encouraged.

The postholder will be expected to take part in the Multi-Disciplinary Meetings in the Foot and Ankle firm – there are separate MDT meetings as well as Combined Complex Clinics.
